title

It was supposed to be a regular Sunday afternoon. I, as I always do at that time on weekends had been watering the flowers in our garden, when I noticed what appeared to be a stray cat, attempting to climb up a tree. I would not have given much thought to it, if not for the face that, when the kitten got up there, it started to meow loudly, as if trying to call for help. I overwhelmed by empathy for the poor thing, decided to, somehow, rescue it. Of course, I would never risk getting up a tree myself, so I did what needed to be done and called a brigade of firefighters. They wouldn't arrive for at least an hour, however, therefore I took it upon myself to tempt the cat down beforehand by offering it a little treat of fish. It was completely unfazed by it, however, but thankfully the rescuers arrived shortly afterward. After seeing them in into our garden, I watched from a distance as the firefighters began their little mission. Though the kitten resisted initially, they eventually managed to take it down its sad-like tree, and the cat has finally been rescued. We then proceeded to release it back into the streets where care takers would take it to an animal shelter. Moreover, I treated the entire brigade with a homemade meal.

It was supposed to be a regular Sunday afternoon. I, as I always do at that time (on) weekends, had been watering the flowers in our garden, when I noticed what appeared to be a stray cat, attempting to climb up a tree. I would not have given much thought to it, if not for the fact that, when the kitten got up there, it started to meow loudly, as if trying to call for help. I, overwhelmed by empathy for the poor thing, decided to, somehow, rescue it. Of course I would never risk getting up a tree myself, so I did what needed to be done and called a brigade of firefighters.

After seeing them in into our garden, I watched from a distance as the firefighters began their "little" mission. Though the kitten resisted initially, they eventually managed to take it down its, jack-like tree, and the cat has finally been rescued.

We then proceeded to release it back into the streets where cat takers would take it to an animal shelter. Moreover, I treated the entire brigade with a homemade meal.
